

LOST IN THE WAY TO WORLD

By Preeti Sah

Lonely are the ways,
no dreams that can stay,
ways are different than I thought,
the ways are tough,
the ways are fare,
I thought it would be easy when I was young,
but now i can say,
YES I am lost in the way to world
The road are cold,
with a lonely mist,
no one there to hold my wrist,
no one there to guide me right,
I am wrong and then fact is right,
I still hope I have never chosen this path,
then I would be the same,
with no wound and no scare,
still what has happened I cant change,
just I can only wait,
I am lost in the way to world.

HEAD OR TAILS

Head you win,
Tails you lose,
Such a childish game
Yet here I am,
Flipping a coin
over and over again.

Heads you love me
Tails you don't.
My heart yearns for more.
It yearns for truth,
The words in your mind,
The emotions in your core.
Head I love you,
Tails I don't.
Trying to make sense of this.
How do I feel?
What do I feel?
Or is this simply a trick?
Head you think about me,
Tails you don't.
Do I ever cross your mind?
Do you ever worry about me?
Wish I was there?
Have you ever given me a sign?
Head you win,
Tails you lose.
Such a childish game.
Yet here I am,
Flipping a coin
Over and over again.

Bio:

Ms. Preeti Sah is working as Assistant Professor in Bharat College of Arts and Commerce, Badlapur.