

ON SALE

By Ananya S Guha

bits of rain
blood
the weather has changed blood has not
it is for sale
drop by drop
in markets, shops
the rumour has it
even malls will sell
export quality
every country is increasing its quality
and the good news is that there is no duty charge sales tax.

Bio

Ananya S Guha has been born and brought up in Shillong, INDIA and works in India's National Open University, the Indira Gandhi National Open University. His poems in English have been published worldwide. He also writes for newspapers and magazines/ web zines on matters ranging from society and politics to education. He holds a doctoral degree on the novels of William Golding. He edits the poetry column of The Thum Print Magazine, and has published seven collections of poetry.