

EDITORIAL

Here is the ninth issue of the online journal “Episteme” that covers, this time, seven nations, including India.

The special features of the current issue are:

- ✚ A poetic tribute to great statesman Nelson Mandela
- ✚ Two articles on famous senior artist from Australia - Rob Harle; and poems by him
- ✚ India in Translation:
 - Some well-known Telegu poems translated in English by a very senior poet, editor and critic Chandra Mouli
 - Hindi poems of Omprakash Pandey Naman translated in English by Trilingual Poet and Multilingual Translator Santosh Alex
- ✚ A long interview with Nick Turner, a young British critic, researcher and academician
- ✚ Research articles on management, advertising, economics, accountancy and women issues
- ✚ Vibrant literary and poetry sections
- ✚ A stimulating book review

Highlights:

- Memoirs
- Long essay: critical debates
- Environment and literature
- Life writing
- Spotlight on the writer: Nathalie Buckland

Episteme: an online interdisciplinary, multidisciplinary & multi-cultural journal

Bharat College of Commerce, Badlapur, MMR, India

Volume 2, Issue 4

March 2014

We are extremely grateful to all our valued contributors for supporting our intellectual endeavor and support of the global readers. Please feel free to communicate your expectations for future editions.

Happy Reading!

Savita Punjabi

Editor

EPISTEME

BCC-ISSN-2278-8794