

LOVE IN ALL SEASONS

By Priya Mohanraj

Pure and fresh is a 'Love in Spring'
The sweet scent of pine clothes every star
With gossamer wings the Angels sing
The songs of nature which echo afar.

Love smiles in bloom on a summers day
Dressed in cherry red with warm embrace
A gentle breeze tests a faith which stays
Grazes her cheek and brushes her face.

A myriad colours does Autumn bring
Breathtaking beauty spellbound with wonder
Dressed in burnished gold and fit for a king
Love walks into your heart with majestic splendour

Winter brings with it, its cold and sleet and snow
Love sits by the fire, warmed by its glow.

Bio:

A teacher at heart and Counselor, Priya Mohanraj, a retired Prof of Economics and former Head of Dept of Economics, Mount Carmel College (Autonomous) Bangalore, has worked with the Adolescent for over 25 years in the capacity of Teacher, Counselor and Life Coach. She also trained the College Choir for 22 years. A musician who plays the piano and sings, her first tryst with poetry came about when she began composing her own songs with lyrics and music arrangements. Poetry has always been her heart beat...an area which has helped her relax and get in touch with the innerself. Poetry and Music are so interrelated, the lyricism, the nuances of both have a common meeting ground. Today she is a Therapist a counselor for individuals and couples, An Academic Life Coach self employed.
