

LINK AND OTHER POEMS

By Tapeswar Yadav

All explications tumbled down faceless into many pieces raining
chunks of mirror bloody and black down the sky Severing
all links, that once twinkled, and glittered
brighter into skies

GAMBLE MY EARTH

All gainful alliance Tread me towards A greater unknown.
The more I stitch the space
More spaces leave me awestruck

All reality glue
A subtle buzz
Into my ears.

The more I find meaning More echo leave me unheard

All sight
Lure me dimensionless
A canopy azure.
The more awareness I discern More I gamble my earth

TO YELL MY PASSION

Shoal of fishes
Spanned across the ocean waves Way towards the gravitating moon Swimming with unblinking eyes - The flight of the stronger fins

It tattooed silvery art
All scales to beautiful moon Favouring all luck to pisces
Its last sign

Eroding all doubts, that Fishes can't fly.
Pouting the space
I reversed cloned Einstein-gene and yelled my passion

Yin-yang
