Dear Friends,

Eid Mubarak!

On this auspicious day, it gives me immense pleasure to present 25th issue of our e-zine. The issue is loaded with 22 contributions from nine nations.

The readers can enjoy this issue loaded with research articles from the field of literature, management, finances and tourism. The poems depict all the emotions of human being from happiness to sorrow. Short fiction and book review adds to the flavour for the reader.

We at Episteme congratulate Mark Cornell from UK for his new publication “Julia and Moonbirds” and wish him more laurels in future.

We remain grateful to all our contributors for contribution to their own e-zine. I express my gratitude to our management and patron, also obliged to our review team for their continuous support. This also gives me opportunity to appeal to the writers to contribute for our forthcoming issues.

Happy Reading!

Neetu Kapoor
